Dentists' delegation was a sham

Published on Nov 30, 2010

I would like to nominate Dr. Hoediono for an award as best supporting actor in a short, foreign, fantasy film. Seriously folks, his acting at the Regional Council meeting on Nov. 24 was nothing short of an academy performance. He has truly missed his calling! He tried to belittle council into going against the will of the people and vote in favor of continuing water fluoridation. He tried to accuse others of making threats on his life. He tried to convince council that he and his cronies know what's best for us peons.

It would have been a comedy performance (like a Three Stooges episode) but for the fact that he was serious.

What I really find ironic is that he stood up at council and tried to convince them that the will of the few dictated the outcome of the vote.

Hold it! Wasn't the few, Hoediono and his lot, trying to convince the many that their way was the best way? Am I missing something here? Your group lost Hoediono, get over it! What I did find disturbing is that three councillors voted in the dentists' favour.

These three obviously do not believe in, nor support, the democratic process and have no business being on any council.
